Area Witch Speaks Out

Enough is enough. They say, "Don't step on Superman's cape and don't spit into the wind, but you're going to do it anyway!

We are personally sick and tired of the fanatical hysteria that has taken hold in the town of Dillsburg. Which is more dangerous, may I ask you, teenagers with semi-automatic weapons, homemade bombs, and other "evil" paraphernalia, or Satanists who did not bother to make an appearance?

The time has come for all of us in all of the surrounding communities to look deeper into this problem...and fast. Let's step back for a moment and reconsider what could have happened had their been bikers with a camp on the mountain, a group of innocent people who are interested in Indian/Eskimo/Aztec beliefs, or Heaven forbid, a group of individuals who are interested in any one of the various New-Age faiths? Allow me to go further, and let me hit you where it hurts. What if a troop of Girl or Boy Scouts had been camping on that mountain. What then?

Everyone is so upset that there may be Satanists in their midst, that they didn't even stop to think of how horrific that night would have become. How do we solve this problem? Do we tell everyone that freedom of religion no longer exists and if practiced outdoors you are signing your death warrant because some fool thinks you are a Satanist?

We have heard all sorts of nonsense this past year. The one that really was absolutely bizzare went like this. 'Did you know that the Satanists are going to hold a ritual and they are looking for a virgin? Better keep your daughter indoors!" Where does this stuff come from? It is good to be cautious, but we are not living in New York City, where brutal crime has been reported.

What I would like to know is the following:

1. How did these kids get their hands on guns. Where were their parents?

2. How taught them to make bombs?

3. They were in the act of premeditating murder. Is this what our children are evolving into? Are we, as parents, so blind that the Satanists are going to teach them that it is acceptable to take the life of another? If they really thought someone was going to be injured, they should have called the police. THAT IS WHAT the Law Enforcement is for and it is why we pay taxes. For our protection and the protection of our children.

4. What ADULT, or ADULTS, "guided" these children on? What supposedly mature adult started this mess? The finding of a mud doll or symbols painted somewhere does not mean that people are being murdered.

There are all kinds of religions these days, most of them are positive, and realistically, some of them are not. But we must use our better judgement when presented with information such as was printed in the Banner.

Yes, we want the facts, but screaming "SATANISTS" in letters that are big enough to walk by themselves is not good for community morale.

One very misunderstood religion is Wicth/Craft, or Wicca. It is an old faith that has been pounded by the Christian churches for years to such a degree that Hollywood delights in the mainstream idea of teaching the American public that it is evil and full of wicked people. In fact, Wiccan religion is very positive, filled with Earth loving people who do not sacrifice babies, or anything else for that matter, and their beliefs are quite close to that of the American Indian or Shamanistic studies. For the information of the general public, Witches are recognized by the Federal Government and they may print WICCA on their dogtags in some branches of the Service. The Rosegate Coven in Rhode Island won tax exempt status recently. Unfortunately, all too often Witches get lumped in with the Satanists and creates the necessary painful "Persecution" complex. Student say books are not available

I am an eleventh grade student currently taking the high level American literature course. About two weeks ago my class began to read The Great Gatsby by F. Scott Fitzgerald, which is on our required reading list. I was amazed to find that there aren't enough copies of the books for all the classes. Consequently, my classmates and I cannot take a copy of the book home to read and study. We spend day after day reading in class. In my opinion, this is not how a high-level literature course should be conducted.

There are several other American literature classes which have a similar problem. They are reading Harper Lee's To Kill a Mockingbird. They were provided with enough copies of the book, but what they received were merely bundles of pages held together by rubber bands. The students had to take the time to put the pages in order. Some bought themselves copies of the novel because they felt what the school provided was unreadable.

I am writing this letter because I have found the administrators at the high school unresponsive in the past. Hopefully, the public will encourage the school board to spend more money to buy the books needed at the high school. I don't know a lot about budgets, but I understand that the district has a monetary reserve. I would think that this money would be available for a matter such as this.

Concerned,
Karl Knaub

At the March 20 board meeting, Supervisor Shelly explained that such a survey would not be feasible since there are no funds to pave this road. However, Shelly suggested that the township could improve the road by widening it, installing gutters for drainage, and applying heavier stone in the near future.

A resident reminded that supervisors of the gutter on Mumper Lane in front of Montadale Cmtn.

Recycling badge

Girl Senior Troop 1231 has been working on a recycling badge. They have learned a great deal about the problems of recycling our trash and would like to share some of that information with you.

1. The average American family produces about 100 pounds of trash every week.

2. Three million cars are abandoned in the U.S. every year.

3. An estimated 14 billion pounds of trash are dumped into the sea every year.

4. We are producing so much garbage that before long we'll soon need at least 500 new dumps each year.

5. Every three months the U.S. throws away enough aluminum to rebuild our commercial airfleet.

6. Over a billion trees are used to make disposable diapers every year.

7. In the U.S., about 70% of all metal is used just once and is then discarded.

8. If you're an average American 1/3 of your garbage is packaging you toss out immediately.

9. Americans buy (and throw away) 500 million disposable cigarette lighters every year.

10. How much garbage will you generate in your lifetime? About 600 times your adult weight.

Dillsburg now has a recycling center: Call Deimler's at 432-0117. These facts were taken from a new book entitled: 50 Simple Things You Can Do To Save the Earth. The Earth Works Group, Earthwoods Press 1989, Berkeley, California.
